

Basic Description

Name: Old Heron

Sex: Male

Ethnicity: Mitan

Age: 77

Place of Birth: Ba Meniri

Intelligence: Shrewd, but no genius.

Education Type and Level: Trade-educated as an appraiser of jewelry and gems

Economic Background: Middle Class

Profession: Merchant

Vocabulary: Might use out-of-fashion words or odd turns of phrase at times due to his advanced age.

General Attitude: After years of caring for the children who run into his shop, Old Heron is very protective of those around him. Even outsiders who come onto his turf are treated as respected guests. Despite his apparent enfeeblement, he still has it in him to take care of others just as much as he relies on them.

Backstory: Old Heron was born into a large fishing family. Upwardly mobile, he apprenticed to the jeweler in town and took over his business. After a youth spent building his business, frequently traveling to find unique pieces, he met his wife a bit later in life while he was on a business trip. She came back with him to help run the shop, but they never had kids of their own, preferring to supervise the neighborhood kids who played in their front room (NOT THE SHOP ROOM) because the store happens to be by a river and it reminded him of his own fishing family growing up. His wife is still alive but when the story happens she's visiting family in her hometown.

Deeper Dive

Conscious Desire: To peacefully mind his shop with his wife and the neighborhood kids.

Unconscious Desire: To cherish every moment of his old age together with his wife before one of them dies.

Likes: Fishing, boats, vegetable dishes, telling long rambling old man stories, cleanliness.

Dislikes: When youngsters assume that he needs help, dirt and mud, black tea.

Key flaw(s): He isn't quick to trust, nor is he quick to rely on others. His inability to rely on others has caused him countless issues and often has nearly led to his death.

Vices: He's also very cowardly. He would choose to run rather than fight, hence why he's the only one alive in his family.

Character Arc/Change: Booker has the everyday character arc of learning to rely on others for something he wants to protect.

Visuals

Physical attributes: He's bald, with thick, round glasses. A kind face, but not extremely so. He's rather short and quite frail. Has a sallow kind of complexion.

Movement: Brisk but shaky.

Clothing: Wears yellow and orange robes, typical for men of this setting.

Casting/Audio

Voice range: low

Other Notes:

Sample, defining dialogue lines:

"If we don't keep moving, they'll catch up. "

"I'm not concerned about your safety. I'm concerned about mine. "

"Sometimes, I think the world would be better without me. Then a zombie comes, and those thoughts fade away."